Reference for Christiane Chadasch

I met Ms. Dr. Christiane Chadasch in context of the Master programme Angewandte Psychologie für die Wirtschaft (Applied Psychology for Business) at PFH Private University of Applied Sciences Göttingen. In my role as programme coordinator, I am in charge of student admission. During application for the programme, Dr. Chadasch stood out as being extraordinarily engaged and goal-focused. She started her studies on October 1, 2020 and completed the programme successfully on June 27, 2021.

Very early onto the programme, we discovered a common interest in agile work and the required change processes. Eventually, this led to a comprehensive Master thesis which I had the pleasure to supervise. The thesis is entitled „Agiles Management im 21. Jahrhundert und seine Auswirkungen auf den Führungsstil und die Kundenzufriedenheit - Systematisches Review“ (agile management in the 21st century and its impact on leadership and customer satisfaction-a systematic review). It can be characterised by its highly systematic methodology and an encompassing perspective on the subject.

During supervision as well as in subsequent projects I had insight into Dr. Chadasch's approach as an agile coach. She focuses on paving the way for a secure future for companies through agile methods such as Scrum and Kanban. She acts in a both scientifically sound as well as practice-oriented way. Her range of activities as an agile coach enables her to incorporate agile principles into her work.

Ms. Dr. Chadasch is a convincing speaker, as evidenced for instance by her Master project presentation. I got to know her as highly engaged, goal-focused, and effective.

I am looking forward to further common projects with her.
